

Akādēmī

South Asian Dance in the UK

and

Chelsea and Westminster Hospital Arts

Dancing for the Spirit

Dance and Music workshop for Children

Wednesday 21st June 2000

3.30 pm – 4.30 pm

The Chapel

Anusha Subramanyam Bharata Natyam Dancer
Peter MacDonald Mridangam

A fun and exciting workshop for children, providing the opportunity to take part in, and learn about, South Asian dance and music.

Involving dance, storytelling, drumming and creative work, the workshop is open to all children, staff and parents.

Dancing for the Spirit is an exciting series of South Asian dance and music performances and workshops at Chelsea & Westminster Hospital and forms part of the hospital's extensive performing arts programme.

AKADEMI - South Asian Dance in the UK is one of the leading South Asian dance organisations in Britain, working to enhance access and opportunities for people in London to participate in South Asian dance and related arts.

Anusha Subramanyam is one of the most prominent Bharata Natyam performers in the country, and also a trained Dance Movement Therapist. She recently completed a project entitled Dancing from the Heart in collaboration with Birmingham Dance Exchange and The Birmingham Children's Hospital.

Series funded by The Bridge House Estates Trust Fund

